Throughout history, God calls people and they listen and obey. God called Samuel, and he listened and obeyed. Jesus called the disciples to follow him, and they did. Today, God still calls us to listen, follow, and obey. And we need to respond.

This song of commitment to following Jesus may have come from India. It is very appropriate for a new believer, especially one who is making a costly change. Let children know that sometimes when people leave another religion to make a commitment to Christ, other family members throw them out or persecute them. Most North Americans don't face that kind of costly commitment.

But all Christians know that every day we need to follow Jesus. We need to find the courage to do what is right, "though none go with me." The final line of the refrain suggests that the writer of this song made a real "turn" in his or her life—to "repent" means to turn around and go in another direction.

Sing with firm conviction, keeping a steady beat, perhaps clapping on the half notes. Accompany with keyboard, guitar, or autoharp. Or create a second instrumental part by having a cello play the tenor line or having that same line played an octave higher by oboe or violin.

In worship, sing as a response to a call to commitment or following a profession of faith.
